Chairman

The Marine Aquarium Association

(Singapore)

The Marine Aquarium Association (Singapore) was formed to represent the interests of companies involved in the marine aquarium business.

The marine aquarium business offers lots of opportunity not just for those in the livestock trading business but also those who trade or manufacture equipment to help make marine aquarium an enjoyable hobby. In recent times, with the greater emphasis on sustainability, there is greater interest by the public to keep and sustain marine livestock they have acquired.

The Marine Aquarium Association believes that with the right education, aptitude and proper life-support equipment, marine aquarium will continue to be a much sought-after hobby. For example, as hard corals become more costly due to restrictions in the numbers being imported, proper care and handling of these corals is more important. The Marine Aquarium Association will play its part in promoting a sustainable approach to caring of corals and tropical marine fishes.

The recession has had a negative impact on the marine aquarium business. But with a sound business model and perseverance, many of our members will still continue to thrive in this unique business.
